Tolstoy's spiritual evolution: The selected passages will trace the evolution of Tolstoy's spiritual beliefs, from his initial adherence to orthodox Christianity to his later embrace of a more personal and simpler faith.

Critique of institutionalized religion: Tolstoy was critical of the hypocrisy and formalism he perceived within institutionalized religion, advocating for a more genuine and authentic spiritual life.

The importance of simple living: He advocated for a simple lifestyle, free from material possessions and worldly ambitions, believing that it is essential for inner peace.
