Storyline/Structure:

The story follows Pipkin Boffin, a timid hobbit content with his simple life in the Shire-like village of Oakhaven. His world is turned upside down when he stumbles upon an ancient wardrobe hidden in his attic. This wardrobe is not merely a piece of furniture; it's a portal to Aethelgard, a land embroiled in a centuries-old conflict between the light-wielding Sylvani and the shadow-bound Umbral. Pipkin, despite his lack of experience and inherent fear, finds himself inexplicably drawn into the war. He discovers he possesses an unexpected connection to Aethelgard's history and a unique ability crucial to the survival of the Sylvani. The narrative follows Pipkin's journey through Aethelgard, his interactions with diverse characters (both Sylvani and Umbral), his overcoming of personal challenges, and his gradual transformation from a timid hobbit to a courageous hero. The war serves as the backdrop for Pipkin's personal growth and exploration of themes of courage, self-discovery, and the power of hope in the face of overwhelming odds. The structure will be episodic, following Pipkin's progression through several key battles and locations within Aethelgard, punctuated by moments of reflection and character development.
